While we know that the majority of clients referred for court ordered sex offender treatment are male, there are females referred for treatment as well.

Individual treatment between client and therapist is necessary, but we also know that group therapy provides a space for a good deal of treatment to occur.

NewPath is happy to offer a sex offense specific group for female offenders based upon demand. While we will offer this treatment opportunity to existing clients, the group is open to clients who are receiving their primary sex offense treatment at other agencies.

For those joining group from other treatment programs, we will work closely with the primary provider and with probation regarding the group therapy experience.

Please contact us if you have a female client referral for this group or you are looking for an agency to which to refer your court ordered women.
